Direct Impact: The right-of-way line crosses the footprint of the structure

Proximity Impact: The right-of-way line does not cross the footprint of the structure, but comes so close to the structure that it is uninhabitable (a threshold of 15-ft has been used as a guideline to assess potential residential relocations for this EIS).

Final determination of relocations will be made during right-of-way acquisition and will include independent evaluation of each property identified as a relocation.
